Abstract: A cummulative index to the first twenty issues of the Publications of the Variable Star Section (R.A.S.N.Z.) covering the period 1973 to 1995 is presented.

1. EXPLANATION

The following index is divided into three sections. The first part is the index to Individual Stars, the second part is the Subject Index and the third part is the Author Index.

In all sections, each entry consists of the title of the paper followed by the list of authors, the Publication number in parentheses, the page number and finally the nominal year of publication, also in parentheses.

Within the list of individual stars, ordering is by the standard three letter abbreviation for the constellation and then alphabetically within each constellation. A small number of stars identified by a CSV, NSV or CPD number, for exmaple, have been included at the start of the list.

The keyword that was used for indexing the Subject Index is followed by a double colon (::).

In the Subject Index, subdivisions of the U Gem type (such as SU UMa, SS Cyg, Z Cam) are shown as individual entries. The topics used for coding the Subject Index are those used by the original authors and in some cases these terms have been superceded by revisions in the nomenclature and classification of variable stars.

Since the first issue of the Publications appeared in 1973, over 1520 pages have been published in 20 issues recording 187 scientific papers and 37 other articles. There were 48 contributing authors.
